ABSTRACT

BIOGRAPHY OR HISTORY

“The Lesbian and Gay Historical Society of San Diego (LGHSSD) launched the Queer Artists Project (QAP) aimed at documenting the work of San Diego’s lesbian, gay, and bisexual visual artists shortly before Pride ’95. This specialized collection is available to researchers and for educational presentations and represents San Diego’s voice in the contemporary discourse on queer art and queer art history. Both emerging and established artists are welcome to participate. This project is not looking for a particular style, content, ‘sensibility’, or politics. It does not ask what gay art looks like, but rather how San Diego’s queer artists looking at the world. The answers will be as varied and unique as the individuals and as artists, join to combat invisibility, to preserve and transmit our history and heritage, to say ‘we were here, and we are here.’

Such a project was first conceived by Bruce Kamerling, the late president of the LGHSSD (Lesbian and Gay Historical Society of San Diego) board and himself an artist of national note. He remained consultant to the project, currently coordinated by Susan Richards, up to the time of his death in October. His memory, his vision, and passion as an artist continue to inspire us.

Several artists are participating thus far and are in the process of developing their files. Since the project is a long-range 'work in progress' files can be added to over time, documenting the evolution of an artist's work. It quickly became clear that as each artist's relationship to their own work is unique, so is their means of documentation. Rather than a standardized format, the form of their 'file' is each artist's choice. This may take the form of slides, photos, videos, written material from formal resumes, flyers, and reviews of shows to informal autobiographical comments on their art including its relationship to their coming out process and their lives in general.

Records are being made of community wide events as well. A video was made of Morris Kight talking about the art from his extensive collection (now part of the International Gay and Lesbian Historical Archives at the University of Southern California) which was exhibited at the LGHSSD tent during the Pride Festival this year. The video is a very personalized tour of the west coast's gay rights movement, as told by one of its founders, and captured in the visual image. A video was also made of the Pride Festival's art gallery, hosted by Gay and Lesbian Latinos Con Orgullo (GLLO).

The AIDS Art Alive third biennial exhibition was also documented on video in hopes of conveying the power of the exhibit itself, as well as the concept of the project. AIDS Art Alive has asked LGHSSD and the QAP to be their historians and archivists. This is an especially important request, as the AIDS Art Alive concept originated in San Diego. It is important for materials to be available to people from around the country to learn from and be inspired to similar projects in their own communities.

It is noteworthy that around the time the QAP was launched, Proclaim Gallery, a community art gallery at 3160 Fifth Ave. was opened by Tim Brian, showcasing the work of gay and lesbian artists. Tim is helping LGHSSD locate artists who might be interested in the QAP, and at the same time invites QAP participating artists to contact him."

Art Makes History by Susan C. Richards from the 2012 Correspondence folder in box 2

"The Queer Artists Project at Lambda Archives of San Diego is an ongoing collection of records documenting the lives and work of San Diego's LGBT artists, as well as local LGBT art exhibitions such as AIDS Art Alive. It includes such things such as artist statements, ephemera advertising exhibitions, biographies, obituaries, and photos and descriptions of work. The records and historical artifacts in the collection are an excellent resource for researchers, students, and art historians. While it is currently primarily paper and image files, it is the intention of Lambda Archives to modernize the project with a vibrant web interface, including a directory of active artists in the community.

The QAP seeks to keep an ongoing record of artistic work within and about our community. As such, we are always seeking new information and artists to be included. Artists, art historians, and exhibitors interested in inclusion in the Queer Archives Project may contact Lambda Archives at archivist@lambdaarchives.org. For further information about the Queer Artists Project and other special projects and collections may be found on our website at www.lambdaarchives.org."

COLLECTION SCOPE AND CONTENT

“This specialized collection represents the voice of San Diego/Tijuana in the contemporary discourse on queer art and queer art history. Both emerging and established artists are in the collection and are welcome to participate in the future.”

– Susan Richards, Queer Artists Project founder
